Violet Petal: Sister of the Rainbow, although I am only a single Violet Petal, I too, am precious because I represent the key to happiness, that of service. I know that if I do some little service every day, I will be like you. Please take my petal so that our special Rainbow Blossom will be complete, and we will know the meaning of true happiness.

(Sister of Spring walks back towards the East with the Special Rainbow Sister and her petals.)

Sister of Spring: Sister of the Rainbow, with your help we now have our Special Rainbow Blossom. We have walked along the Garden Path and gathered each precious petal. We have learned that our blossoms will not be complete without each other and every petal. You have cared for them just as you have cared for us, so that one day we may become Rainbow Girls.

Pledge Ritual: Blossom Ceremony

For use in Canadian Rainbow Pledge Groups

Approved for use by
Amy Jackson, Supreme Deputy
October 2026

This is a short service which can be used by the Pledges to honour a special Rainbow Girl. This program can be adapted to eliminate formal floor work if necessary to accommodate an informal venue (like Grandy Camp).

The ceremony may also be adapted to have parts shared by girls based on the number of members available.

BLOSSOM CEREMONY

(The Sister of Spring enters with the Bible along the south line and into the Altar and places the open Bible on the Altar. She continues out towards the north marching line and goes East towards her station (WA).)

Sister of Spring: "The petals of our Rainbow Blossom will enter and take their places in our 'Garden of Colour.'

(All blossoms enter, Violet being first, along the south side and around the bow to the back of their chairs. All sit together.)

Sister of Spring: "_____, our sister of the Rainbow, will you walk with me through our Garden of Colour?"

"I am the Sister of Spring. I represent that time in our lives when we are reaching out in search of a lighted and bright pathway. A pathway that will lead us to your Rainbow and all that it promises.

As we walk in our 'Garden of Colour', I am reminded that it was you who planted the seeds for us. Seeds of , Happiness', Kindness and Confidence. Seeds that have now bloomed into seven beautiful petals, in the colours of the Rainbow.

As you can see, our lovely garden is not complete for it has grown only petals. But, if you help us, as you have always done, we will gather each precious petal and form a special 'Rainbow Blossom', a blossom that represents the summer of our lives when we, too, will become Rainbow Girls."

(Stop in front of the red petal. Wait for her to give her the red petal. Go to each colour, stop and wait in the same way.)

Red Petal: Sister of the Rainbow, although I am only a single Red Petal, I am precious because I represent the love that grows between you and me. I give you this petal so that you may make it a part of our special Rainbow Blossom, and remember our love always.

Orange Petal: Sister of the Rainbow, although I am only a single Orange Petal, I, too, am precious because I represent the faith we have in a Higher Power, and the faith we have in each other. Will you take my petal so that it, too, may become a part of our special Rainbow Blossom, reminding us to always keep our faith strong?

Yellow Petal: Sister of the Rainbow, although I am only a single Yellow Petal, I, too, am precious because I represent the sun, which causes all things to grow in our 'Garden of Colour'. As you take my petal and make it part of our special Rainbow Blossom, please remember the warmth of our friendship and how it continues to grow.

Green Petal: Sister of the Rainbow, although I am only a single Green Petal, I am very precious because I represent the part of our blossom that never dies. Even after the colours of our blossom fade away, I will have faith in the warmth and I will help our blossom bloom again next spring. Please take my petal and make it part of our special Rainbow Blossom so that it may continue to bloom forever.

Blue Petal: Sister of the Rainbow, although I am only a single Blue Petal, I, too, am precious because I represent true friendship. I know that in times of laughter, and in times of tears, you will be here for me. Please take my petal and make it a part of our special Rainbow Blossom, so that we may remember to be forever true.

Indigo Petal: Sister of the Rainbow, although I am only a single Indigo Petal, I, too, am precious because I represent our love for the land I grow in. Without this nourishing soil I could not have grown into a strong, worthy being. Please take my petal and make it part of our special Rainbow Blossom so that we will always remember to love our country.
